Plaintiffs, LIFEGUARD LICENSING CORP. (“Lifeguard Corp.”), and POPULARITY PRODUCTS, LLC (“Popularity”), by their attorneys, as and for their Complaint against Defendants, allege as follows:

NATURE OF THE ACTION

9. Upon information and belief, ANN ARBOR actively solicits and derives revenues from customers located in the State of New York and in this District, via AnnArborTees.com.

10. Defendants have also sold the complained of infringing/counterfeiting products to customers in New York, and delivered them to addresses in New York, via the Amazon.com website.

12. Defendants Jerry Kozak and Richard Winowiecki have personally been made aware in phone calls and letters that they are infringing the Marks and they have refused to stop doing so.

13. Said infringing and counterfeiting activity by Defendants has allowed them to accrue an unknown amount of unlawful profits while simultaneously depriving Plaintiffs of same.

FACTS COMMON TO ALL CLAIMS

Background on Lifeguard and the Lifeguard Mark

18. Lifeguard Corp., directly and through its predecessors in interest, has been using the Marks on swimwear and underwear since 1937. Since that time, Lifeguard Corp., has expanded its use of the Marks to other apparel items including but not limited to shirts, sweatshirts, t-shirts and beachwear. As a result of Lifeguard Corp.'s long-standing use of the Marks as well as Lifeguard Corp.'s success in selling, advertising, licensing and promoting clothing and accessories bearing the Marks, the LIFEGUARD® brand and marks have become strong and recognizable.

19. Lifeguard Corp., is the owner of the trademarks LIFE GUARD® (Reg. No. 355,543) for swim trunks, LIFEGUARD (Stylized)® (Reg. No. 562,509) for men's underwear, LIFEGUARD® (Reg. No. 2,754,820) for a variety of goods in classes 18 (bags) and 25 (clothing and accessories) and LIFEGUARD® (Reg. No. 3,800,325) for a variety of goods in class 25 (clothing and accessories). United States Patent and Trademark Office (“USPTO”) printouts illustrating Lifeguard’s ownership of the Marks are attached hereto as Exhibit A.

20. Lifeguard Corp., licenses use of the Marks to prominent companies such as The Warnaco Group, Inc. (“Warnaco”) and Popularity Products LLC (“Popularity”).

21. Until recently, under license from Lifeguard Corp., Warnaco’s subsidiary, Speedo, used the Lifeguard mark on hundreds of thousands of items of Speedo apparel.

22. More recently, Popularity has the exclusive license to the Marks in the United States within various apparel categories, including t-shirts, sweatshirts, and tank tops.

23. Pursuant to this exclusive licensee, Popularity sells hundreds of thousands of pieces of Lifeguard apparel every year.

24. Plaintiffs have made prominent and extensive use of the Marks in commerce on apparel including on items such as bathing suits, underwear, pants, sweatshirts, t-shirts and hats.

25. Plaintiffs have been using the Marks on the front of the garments and on hangtags and labels immediately affixed to such garments.

26. Plaintiffs took out a full page add in Souvenirs & Gifts & Novelties Magazine detailing Lifeguard’s trademark rights and warning any infringers that Lifeguard will “take all necessary action to protect its rights....” This advertisement ran in the November/ December 2008 and January/ February 2009 issues.

27. The hangtags and labels affixed to Lifeguard’s merchandise also detail Plaintiffs’ trademark rights and further warn any infringers that Plaintiffs will take all necessary action to protect their rights.

28. Plaintiffs have also, via counsel consistently sent cease and desist letters to any persons/entities it has become aware of who have used the Marks without authorization.

29. Plaintiffs have also filed several lawsuits seeking damages for trademark counterfeiting/infringement against several entities that used their Marks without authorization.

Defendants' Infringing Use of the Marks

30. Although Plaintiffs have never authorized Defendants to utilize the Marks in any manner, Defendants have been knowingly, willfully and without any authorization from Plaintiffs, selling, distributing, manufacturing, importing, displaying, advertising, marketing and/or promoting clothing bearing infringing reproductions of the Marks in interstate and intrastate commerce, including, upon information and belief, in this District.

31. Defendants are advertising and selling their Infringing Merchandise, which is often identical in appearance, to merchandise sold by Plaintiffs, using the exact same Mark as that owned and federally registered by Lifeguard. Thus, consumers are likely to be misled into believing that the Counterfeiting/Infringing Merchandise is genuine Lifeguard merchandise when in fact it is not.

32. Upon information and belief, the Infringing Merchandise sold by Defendants that bears virtually identical replicas of the Marks is calculated to deceive the purchasing public into believing that the Infringing Merchandise is manufactured, sold, authorized by and/or affiliated with the Lifeguard mark and/or with Lifeguard Corp.

33. Defendants have continued their aforementioned infringing and counterfeiting activity, despite several written demands from Plaintiffs that they stop doing so.

34. Defendants' sales of the Infringing Merchandise have substantially undermined Lifeguard Corp.'s lucrative license agreements with Popularity, as well as the LIFEGUARD® brand in general.

35. Defendants' actions have caused and will continue to cause Plaintiffs significant financial losses while simultaneously unjustly enriching them by the false association created by their use of the Marks.

Merchandise, which bears a virtually indistinguishable replica of the Lifeguard Marks, does not originate from or have the approval or authorization of Lifeguard.

53. Defendants are capitalizing on and profiting from the likely consumer confusion between their Infringing Merchandise and Lifeguard's authentic LIFEGUARD® brand merchandise.
